Where clinics lose patients THE PROBLEM

01
Evening messages wait

Patients write after hours and hear back the next morning. Some have already booked somewhere else.

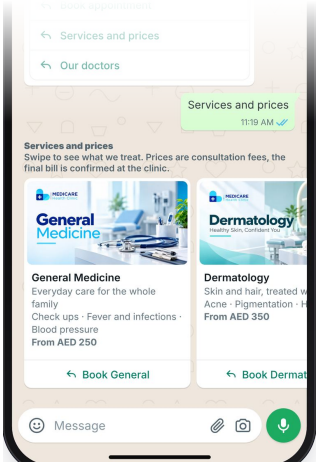

02
The same questions, all day

Doctors, prices, branches, free slots. Your front desk repeats the answers instead of looking after the patients in front of them.

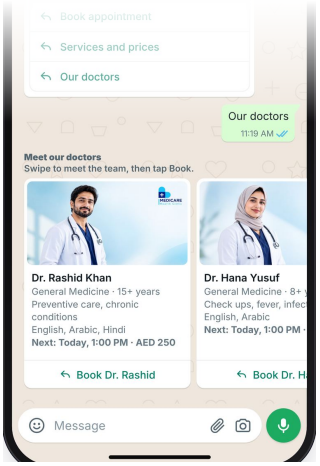

03
Too many messages to book

Settling on one suitable time can take many messages back and forth. The agent does it with one short form.

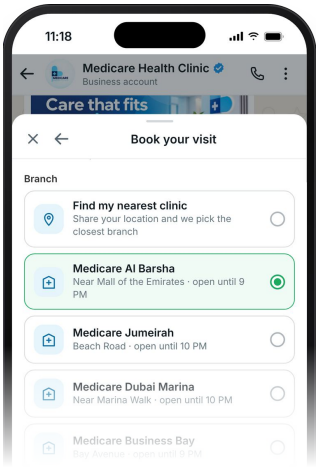

What your patient sees FIRST MESSAGE TO BOOKING

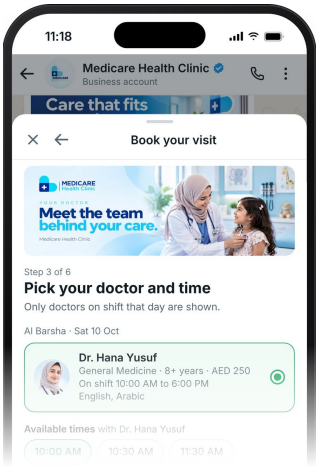

01 Services and prices
Swipe cards with prices and a booking button on each.

02 Meet the doctors
Experience, languages and the next free time.

03 Branch and date
Pick a branch or share location for the nearest one.

04 Doctor and time
Only doctors on shift and times still free.

What the agent does

Books inside WhatsApp
Service, branch, doctor, time and details in one short form. No links, no app.

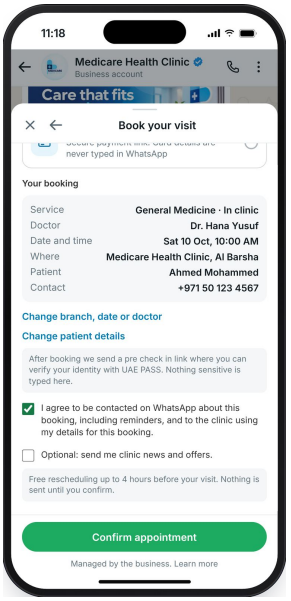

Right doctor, right time
Shows doctors on shift and free times. Live once linked to your booking system.

Many branches, one number
Patients pick a branch, or share location and we find the nearest.

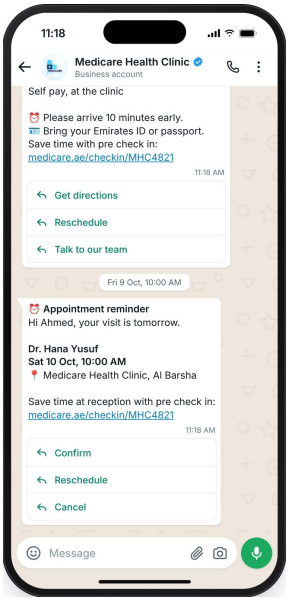

FAQs, or a real person
An optional AI assistant answers common questions. Medical questions, or anyone who prefers a person, go to your team in one tap.

Reminders and reviews
Appointment reminders and a review request after the visit, as Meta approved templates.

Privacy first
Emirates ID, insurance numbers, symptoms and card details are never asked in chat.
